Dear Sir:

I thank you for the printed copies of your articles in the "Zeitschrift" and in "Prometheus", which I duly received, I have had the latter translated and published in the "American Engineer", and have had a copy sent to you.

I presume that you intend to give a further account of your experiments of 1894, and I should be very glad to receive an advance copy, to be translated and published in this country. Please draw a draft upon me, at sight, for any expense which you may incur in sending this advance copy.

Yours very truly
O. Chanute
